

Operational Maritime Law

Volume One

CALL FOR PAPERS

As modern threats become more complex and naval assets increasingly protect and defend against threats from both State and non-State actors it intrinsically becomes more evident that further study and review of current maritime law is necessary. Bearing in mind that all naval operations are bound by international law, having knowledge of the legal boundaries of military options and responses is paramount.

The Centre of Excellence for Operations in Confined and Shallow Waters (COE CSW) in Kiel, Germany is committed to the maritime interests of the international community. Expanding on our already extensive involvement in such interests, we intend to publish an independent first-in-a-series publication in the field of public international maritime law. The Operational Maritime Law Volume One will be independently peer-reviewed by international editors. It will contain contributions on topics addressing all aspects of operational maritime law inside and outside armed conflict. We aim to provide a forum for military and legal experts to publish new research advancing legal discourse, as well as analysis of current issues, in order to create a comprehensive compilation of articles, reports, findings, and documents.

The COE CSW respectfully requests your contribution.

Those interested in publishing an article in Operational Maritime Law Vol. 1 should submit a paper dealing with any topic of interest in this field by 31 June 2016. The length of the paper should be not less than 5,000 words and not more than 12,500 words inclusive of footnotes. Potential authors are also requested to include a brief biographical statement, including information regarding current academic or operational affiliations and general research interests.
